SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE HERALD. General Napier's Report of His Advance-Position of Theodorus.

QUEEN'S HOTEL, LONDON, April 13, 1868. The War Office publishes, by authority of the Com mander-in-Chief of the Forces, despatches just received from Major General Napier, commanding the army in Abyssinia, dated near Lake Ashangi on the 17th of March.

Ceneral Napler reports that the headquarter division of the troops would reach Ashangi the following day. The remainder of the force, with the great guns and mortars, were on the advance and coming up rapidly.

By special cable telegrams sublished in the HERALD on the 29th and 30th of March, we advised our readers of the movements of General Kapler just previous to his arrival at Ashangi.]

THE PRESS TELEGRAM. General Napler's March-The Force Under His Command.

LONDON, April 13, 1868. Official despatches from General Sir Robert Napier. in command of the Abyssinian expedition, have been received by the government. They show that in spite of the bad roads the British forces are steadily advancing toward Magdala, and meanwhile there is every evidence of the intention on the part of the King of Abyssinia to offer a serious resistance. General Napier in his latest despatch dated near Lake Ashangi, March 17, says:—"Our advance will reach Lake Ashangi to-morrow. The rear, with the artillery and supply trains, is three days' march behind. The country is mountainous and very difficult for the artillery and trains. King Theodorus is near Magdala, where he intends to make a stand. Letters from the captives say they are well. The health of the troops is good." The effective force under General Napler, now ad-

La Liberté (newspaper) this morning has another of a series of editorial articles calculated to allay the general discontent and uneasiness which have been inspired by the recent warlike preparations of the French government.

To give some idea of the depth of the popular feeling, the writer says that the United States Legation at Paris is continually overrun with Frenchmen who are anxious to escape the military service to which they are now liable military service to which they are now liable under the provisions of the new army bill. Knowing nothing of the American laws of naturalization, and having only the lately concluded Prusso-American treaty in their minds, they are literally beseigning the United States representative for naturalization papers. Be pleased to say to Mr. Stanton on our behalf that the country owes him a debt of gratitude for his eminent services in the War Department that can never be adequately repaid, and that we feel that the demoralized condition of the Treasury Department, resulting from the maladministration of Andrew Johnson, requires for its purification the same high characteristics exhibited by Mr. Stanton in the suppression of the rebellion. To-day the funeral of the late Hon. Thomas D'Arcy

McGee took place. The day was cold, but sunny. Long before daybreak the crowds commenced to assemble in the streets along which the procession was to pass, and by nine o'clock fully sixty thousand spectators had to suffocation, and the housetops, windows and bal-conies were black with gazers. In the streets through which the procession marched the houses were decorated with festoons of crape and funeral arches were erected, on which mottoes and inscriptions were splayed. The day had been proclaimed a public holiday, and all places of business and public offices were closed. Flags everywhere were half-masted. The chief mourners were Colonel McGee, of the Irish Brigade; Mrs. McGee and ner two little girls, and James Sadiler, of New York. A vast crowd of citizens followed in the rear as far as the eye could reach. The procession, marching six deep, occupied two hours and fifty minutes in passing. At the lowest estimate 20,000 people marched in its ranks.

The body was placed in a metallic coffin, the outer case of which was of rosewood, studded with silver nails and surrounded by wreaths of laurel. The funeral car was twelve feet long and sixteen feet high, surmounted by a gold crucifix. It was covered with black velvet bearing in silver the moticos "Misere Domine" and "Consummatus in Brevi Explesit temapra Multa." The deceased's coat of arms and family motto were also on it—"Fac et Opera." The car was drawn by six gray horses draped with black velvet, led by men with silver wands. The procession marched to St. Patrick's church, where a solemn mass was celebrated by Father Dowd. The church was hung with black and richly decorated. A sermon was preached by Vicar General O'Farrall, of Ottawa. He warmly culogized McGee, and defended him from the charge of Political recreancy. At the conclusion of a period where he eloquently denounced the Fenians he was greeted by loud 'cheers, which the reverend gentleman repressed, saying, "This is the house of God."

From thence the body proceeded to the parish church where a Libra was chanted, the Archbishop of Montreal officiating. The church was hung in black and crowded to its utmost capacity. Thence the body was borne through the city to Cote des Neiges Cemetery, where it was deposited in the vault. Crowds had assembled at every point and in the cemetery. Altogether over a hundred thousand persons witnessed the spectacle, which was the grandest ever seen in Montreal.

No accidents occurred on the occasion, although an uneasy rumor prevailed that some malcontents would raise an alarm of fire in the church to get up a tumult.

Some few people were badly crushed and a few were run over. No other accidents or incidents occurred.

The Evidence Against Whelan-The Day of Funeral Observed as a Holiday.

OTTAWA, April 13, 1868.

There is a bill in the proceedings of the authori ties with the evidence taken on Saturday in relation to the assassination of Hon T. D'Arcy McGee. The case for the crown rosts at present. Indications continue strong that some of the conspirators have unbosomed themselves to the authorities.

To-day is observed as a holiday out of respect to the deceased.

FIRE IN A TENEMENT HOUSE IN RIVINGTON STREET. Shortly before one o'clock this morning a fire

roke out in the frame tenement house No. 206 Rivington street, and in a few minutes extended to the adjoining buildings, which were all constructed of wood, and into which a number of poor families were literally packed. The fire broke out when almost all were abed, but it was not long before the alarm had reached them all, and the knowledge of their imminent danger and the combustible material of the houses rendered many of the occupants wild with discover how the fire originated or was discovered. The straightest story was given by Mr. Sliver, who resided on the third floor of No. 206. He had been at home about an hour, and was about to retire when he heard glass cracking and smelled smoke very strongly. He immediately left his room, and then discovered that the stairs were on fire and the hallways filled with smoke, thus cutting off all egress. He aroused his wife and child, and opening the front window, gave the larm. The fire had meantime been discovered from the street, and Mr. Sliver, with commendable coolness, dropped his baby out of the window into the arms of some person who was ready to receive it. He then dropped his wife out of the window, but she fell on the walk and was badly hurt about the head and upper part of the body. He then jumped out himself and escaped uninjured. A Mr. Miller and his wife were asieep on the third floor, and when the firemen reached their rooms from the front rooms they found the occupants completely prostrated. They managed to get them out and conveyed them to the Eleventh Ward Station House. The miller was suffocated by smoke, but will probably recover, while his wife was burned and badly suffocated, and was suffering very much before her removal to the hospital.

Efforts of Revenue Officers to Seize Illicit Stills-A Force of Marines Called Out to Protect Them—The Police Also on Hand—Attnek

Upon and Injuring of Officers and Men.
The illicit distillation of whiskey since the inception of the imposed tax upon this popular beverage by the Internal Revenue law has to a considerable, yet unknown extent been in vogue in a portion of the Fifth ward of Brooktyn, called "Irishtown." In extent it is rather a large territory, and densely populated by the rougher class of citizens, chiefly of one extraction, who have many times demonstrated that they cared but little for local or governmental laws, particu-larly those appertaining to the payment of such taxes as are satisfactory to the enterprising officers of the Internal Revenue Department of the Third dis-trict. With a keen eye to the main chance and perhaps impelled by the same incentive that has marked more prominent operators of like character, they conceived the idea of manufacturing whiskey and immediately carried it into execution. The majority of these inhabitants produced the article in question, although each in a limited quantity, thereby adding very materially to their respective incomes.

THEIR MODE OF DISTILLATION.

This is quite original and complimentary to their inventive genius. Each family possessed from pots and stoves, and with but little addition thereto they were converted into stills that served the purpose intended. In the innermost rooms of their houses and occasionally in some back dwelling these were put in operation, and night and day the illegitimate production of whiskey was carried on. Gallons upon gallons have, consequently, been removed, the Revenue Department being defrauded thereby many thousands of dollars, and ilquor dealers in certain sections of the ward deriving the benefit therefrom.

THE OFFICERS OF THE REVENUE.

removed, the flevenue Department being defranded thereby many thousands of dollars, and liquor dealers in certain sections of the ward deriving the benefit therefrom.

Collector Wood, in charge of this district, known as the Third, long advised of these operations, has more than once despatched his officers to effect the seizure of illicit stills there and the arrest of the parties owning and running them, but their missions have almost uniformiy been unsuccessful, principally because of the lawless nature of the men and their sympathizers, whose names are iegion. The last attempt made was productive of a murderous attack upon a deputy sheriff, who, beset by scores armed with missiles, left him fearfully mangied on the street, his life being despaired of. Becoming convinced that stern measures must be adopted to ensure the seizure of these innumerable stills, Collector Wood communicated with the constituted authorities at Washington, and yesterday morning received orders long expected, giving him the requiste power to proceed to the territory in question, using lorce to effect his purpose if necessary. The week the enlisting of a portion of the marine guard stat. Led at the Navy Yard, not a long distance from the places where the illicit distillations have been carried on. Acting in concert with the Collector, United States Marshal ballon yesterday morning issued an order to the commandant of the Navy Yard directing that a force of fifty marines should immediately be placed at the disposal of Collector Wood. Preparations for the proper manner to act under the circumstances having been decided upon, after mature deliberation Deputy Collector Egan at noon, with a body of men sufficient to seize the stills found to be unlawfully in operation, but on the proper manner to act under the circumstances having been decided upon, after mature deliberation Deputy Collector Egan at noon, with a body of men sufficient to seize the stills found to be unlawfully in operation, in the marines were divided into two sections befo

The appearance of the marines with loaded mus-kets marching up the street spread dismay, which was speedily substituted by feelings of defiance. The intelligence of their arrival had spread like wildfire. was speedly substituted by feelings of deflance. The intelligence of their arrival had spread like wildtire. Men ran lither and thither; groups stood at corners engaged in hurried conversations and then quickly dispersed in different directions. Soon the streets were crowded with women and children, who were not silent or guarded in the expression of their sentiments, which eventually culminated in a viocent assault upon the marines and revenue officers. Up to the present the marines and revenue officers. Up to the present the marines had exhibited no symptoms of hostility, but the threatening attitude of the rapidly increasing mob called forth some action, and they were quickly drawn up in line near John street. Scarcely had they taken up this position when a voiley of stones was mercliessly showered at the men. The greatest excitement prevailed, which was even heightened by the shouts and yells of scores of little fellows who heralded their approach. Almost every window in the locality displayed numbers of its earnest and inquisitive faces, and the more courageous of the feminine community ascended the housetops, where, having collected a heap of missiles, they commenced a vigorous attack on those below.

One of the bricks thrown struck Deputy Collector Eggan upon the head, knocking him down. Near the corner of Little and Water streets Captain Squiers, of the marines, was also struck on the head with a large stone by a young man, who subsequently gave his name as George Golding. This belligerent individual was immediately arrested by the police undercommand of Sergeant Drake, who meanwhile had been sent for, as Colonel Browne did not desire to resort to the use of arms, and sent to the Forty-second police precinct station. Before the arrival of the police, however, one of the marines was struck upon the head with a brick and severely injured.

was struck upon the head with a brick and severely injured.

THE SEARCH FOR THE STILLS.

The revenue officers commenced at the foot of Little street, and entered in succession Nos. 12, 29, 21, 24 and 43 of this street. In a shed in the rear of No. 12 was found a large copper still of one nundred and fifty galions capacity, and three mash tube containing two thousand galions of mash, which were seized. In the sheds at the pear of the other buildings mentioned the brick work of the stills was found warm, the stills having been removed as soon as it was ascertained that the revenue officers and marines were in sight.

Collector Eagan had concluded his search at about six o'clock, when the marines were withdrawn.

Additional Excitement.

During the confusion one of the marines had managed to obtain liquor, and as the body were passing through Hudson avenue he broke from the ranks and occasioned considerable excitement. Seeing the crowds rushing from every direction, some of the men supposed that an attack had been made upon ""m and charged bayonets, ready to protect themselves. The police "athered again in was indescribable. The police "athered again in was indescribable. The crowd then dispersed, and Little street and the surrounding localities were again quiet; but in the prosecution of the design to effectually suppress the ullicit distillation of whiskey in that section it is apprehended that serious trouble will occur.

On Saturday Inspector Conatty, under direc-tions of Collector Balley, of the Fourth district, seized the distillery of William Hagerty, in East Twenty-fourth street, near First avenue, on a charge that spirits had been removed on a charge that spirits had been removed from the distillery to a liquor store instead of to a bonded warehouse, as required by law. The premises are valued at $13,000. Last night the same officer, assisted by Mr. John Gleeson, of Mr. Bailey's office, and a number of specials, made a descent on the distillery in Twenty-eighth street, near First avenue, owned by a Mr. McCormick, and also the rectifying house adjoining. The officers next proceeded to and seized Newberger's distillery in Thirty-third street, near Seventh avenue, and Leidersdorf's rectifying house in the immediate neighborhood. The latter establishment contains a considerable quantity of whiskey.

POLITICAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Southern Elections The pioneer election in the South for the current month commences to-day, April 14, in South Carolina. In Louisiana the election begins on Friday, the 17th. The election in Georgia commences on the 20th, and in North Carolina on the 21st. The election in Florida win begin on the 4th of next month. They all continue for three or more days. Alabama has already accepted the radical constitution and elected the radical ticket, and is ready for admis-sion. Arkansas is also reported to have adopted the radical constitution and elected radical officers, while Mississippi and Texas are, as yet, silent. Virginia, at our own doors, as it were, is as dimeult to be heard from, as regards the final results of registra-tion, as any of the so-called cotton states, while North Carolina is now in the height of one of the hottest political fights that ever occurred in the State. In all parts of the Southern country, however, we perceive the white population are becoming alive to the importance of taking some action in this crisis in their affairs; and if they wish to save themselves from utter and irremediable political oblivion it is time for them to do so, and that vigorously.

In 1860, the negro majority in South Carolina was 18,377; by the last registration, 32,208.

The conservatives go into the election upon the ollowing platform concerning the colored popula-

Resolved, That under the action of the State of South Carolina, heretofore taken, we recognize the colored population of the State as an integral element of the body politic, and as such, in person and property, entitled to a full and equal protection under the State constitution and laws; and that as citizens of South Carolina we declare our willingness, when we have the power, to grant them, under proper qualifications as to property and intelligence, the right of suffrage.

Mayoralty Election in Trenton, N. J. The election in Trenton, N. J., yesterday resulted in the choice of Wm. Napton, democrat, for Mayor, and the whole democratic city ticket, with a majority of the Council and ward officers. The majority on the city ticket is over two hundred.

ment was again crowded last night by a delighted audience. La Belle Hélène loses none of her power to charm as she becomes better known with the public Already the quaint and dainty scraps of melody that are scattered so lavishly through this little opera are catching the general car as aptly as did those in the "Ddchees," and the "Romance of Mount Ida," that set old Calchas in ecstacles, is equally effective on many less demonstrative auditors. "Un Mari Sage," given with such exquisite gusto and abandon, and that has been encored every night since the play has been on, is a greater favorite than any single piece given hitherto, while some of the concerted pieces are as effective as it is possible to conceive. Altogether, by the "Duchees" and this opera Offenbach has become fairly installed as the musical ilon of the season in this city, and is likely to command the presence of the people as long as the theatre may remain open. He has the happiness of being rendered in a siyle not only unexceptionable, but that furthers and intensifies the peculiar sentiment and humor of the piece with exquisite success.

MRS. FRANCES A. KEMBLE IN BROOKLYN .- Mrs. Kemble commenced her first week's reading in Brooklyn last night at the Institute in Washington Brooklyn last night at the Institute in Washington street. The selection was "Cymbeline," which Mrs. Kemble read with all her fine dramatic power. The admirable modulations of voice, the distinct intonations, which characterize her method as a reader, were displayed to great advantage, and were enhanced, perhaps, by the good acoustic properties of the hall. The audience was composed of the intelligent and literary elements of Brooklyn society, who thoroughly appreciated Mrs. Kemble's efforts. There will be three more readings in Brooklyn this week—a morning reading on Wednesday and Saturday and an evening reading on Friday. Next week Mrs. Kemble returns to Steinway Hall to renew her successes before the New York public.

Mr. Dickens' Readings.—The reappearance of Mr. Charles Dickens at Steinway Hall last evening was not marked by the same curiosity which characterized his previous visit. There was, however, a large attendance, though the hall was not by any means uncomfortably crowded. Shortly after eight o'clock Mr. Dickens stepped briskly forward, and without any ceremony other than his usual knowing smile and the announcement of the piece, commenced his reading of "Dr. Marigold," The long story of the tender hearted pedler or "cheap Jask," his shrewdness, humor, sufferings and self-sacrifice, were well portrayed and ellcited at intervais some tokens of approbation. The reader's acting was much better than his delivery, the latter in many instances being quite too hurried to create an impression. "Mrs. Gamp?" was read for the first time, and diffused a spirit of mertiment among the audience, who certainly required something to move them from the evident tack of interest which at times manifested itself. not marked by the same curiosity which character-DE GARMO'S HALL-MISS LACOSTE'S RECITALS.

Miss Lacoste's third recital of "Julius Casar" attracted last evening a large and appreciative audience. The difficult tour de force of representing this entire play difficult tour de force of representing this entire play of 6 hakspeare, with its thirty-two characters, by a single voice was accomplished with more self-confidence and with more power than even on the two previous occasions. The quarrel scene between Brutus and Cassius, and the oration of Mark Antony were rendered with a spirit which elicited hearty applause. The characters of Brutus, Mark Antony, Casar, Calphurnia and Portia were particularly well sustained. Even the most audacious "new readings" on which Miss Lacoste ventured were entitled to serious consideration, if not always to unqualified approbation, on the part of fastidious "Shakspeare scholars," We do not hesitate to say that the recitats of Miss Lacoste must be numbered among the most intellectual entertainments of the present season.

BROOKLYN LOIS.

Much attention will be given to-day to a sale of Brooklyn lots, some 415, to be made by JOHNSON & MILLER, at the Exchange Salesroom, 111 Broadway, to-day, at 12 o'clock. See advertisement. It comprises nine entire blocks, the remainder of an old estate; sale without limit or reserve. We doubt not that basis of some future fortunes lies in this sale. Our readers will remember a sale advertised in the Stockholder; some weeks ago of New York loss, the aggregate proceeds of, which were $1,480,000. We mentioned at the time that the farm which contained these lots was offered in 1848, By years ago, for $6,500 and nobody found to buy at that price. Advance in 20 years, over 221 hundred per cent.

The same auctioneers will also sell Wednesday. April 12, the balance of the International control of the property belonging to the estate of the late Hon. J. A. Cross, and Tuesday, April 21, the balance of the property belonging to the estate of John O'Donouve.
